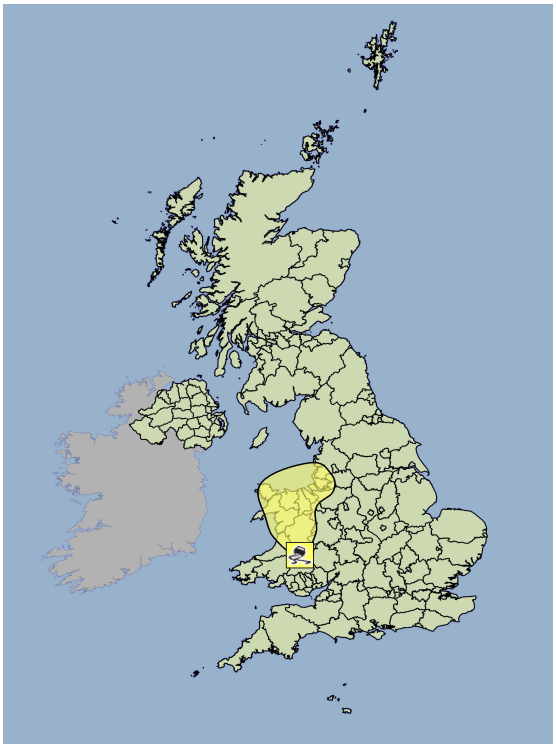
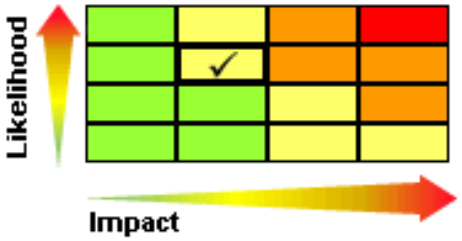
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Showers will affect parts of northern Wales and NW England on Monday night these turning wintry on high ground. Later in the night showers will become more isolated, and as skies clear, road and pavement temperatures will fall below freezing, and with surfaces wet, icy stretches are expected to develop on untreated surfaces on Tuesday morning.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 01:00 on Tue, 23rd Feb 2016 until 09:00 on Tue, 23rd Feb 2016

Icy stretches are expected to form on many untreated roads and pavements on Tuesday morning. In addition, slight snowfalls are possible on some higher routes, chiefly above 300 m.

Please be aware of the risk of some difficult driving conditions, and some low level travel disruption.
